

I'm not robot

Continue

The building was empty. My servants were enjoying dinner. I knew they would be gone all night.

I took two large candles, lit them and gave one to Fortunato. I started down the dark, twisting staircase with Fortunato close behind me. At the bottom of the stairs, the damp air rattled itself around our bodies.

"Where are we?" Fortunato asked. "I thought you said the cask of Amontillado was in your wine cellar."

"Yes," I said. "The wine cellar is just beyond these tombs, where the dead of my family are kept. Surely you are not afraid of walking through the tombs."

He turned and looked into my eyes. "Tomb?" he said. He began to cough. The silver bells on his cap jingled.

"My poor friend," I said, "how long have you had that cough?"

"It's nothing," he said, but he couldn't stop coughing.

"Come," I said firmly. "we will go back upstairs. Your health is important. You are rich, respected, admired, and loved. You have a wife and children. Many people would miss you if you died. We will go back before you get seriously ill. I can go to Luchesi for help with the wine."

"No!" he cried. "This cough is nothing. It will not kill me. I won't die from a cough."

"That is true," I said, "but you must be careful." He took my arm and we began to walk through the cold, dark rooms. We went deeper and deeper into the cellar.

Finally we arrived in a small room. Some were propped high against one wall. A doorway in another wall opened to an even smaller room, about one meter wide and two meters high. Its walls were solid rock.

"Here we are," I said. "I had the cask of Amontillado in here." I pointed to the smaller room. Fortunato lifted his candle and stepped into the tiny room. I immediately followed him. He stood proudly during at two iron handcuffs clamped to a wall of the tiny room. I grabbed his arms and locked them into the metal handcuffs. It took only a moment. He was too surprised to fight me.

I stepped outside the small room.

"Where is the Amontillado?" he cried.

"Ah yes," I said, "the cask of Amontillado." I leaned over and began pushing aside the pile of bones against the wall. Under the bones was a basket of stone blocks, some cement and a small shovel. I had hidden the materials there earlier. I began to fill the doorway of the tiny room.

"The Cask of Amontillado" Modified Test

Read each passage and determine the meaning of the underlined word using context clues.

- "As though I would be avenged, this was a point definitively settled – but the very definitiveness with which it was resolved, precluded the idea of risk."
 - To allow; to encourage
 - To prevent; to make impossible
- "I must not only punish, but punish with impunity."
 - Freedom from punishment, harm, or bad consequences
 - Freedom from remarks intended for someone else
- "He approached me with excessive warmth, for he had been drinking much."
 - To approach and speak to, in a friendly manner
 - To approach and speak to, especially in an aggressive manner
- "I had told them that I should not return until the morning, and had given them explicit orders not to stir from the house."
 - To state vaguely
 - To state clearly
- "Once more let me implore you to return."
 - To ask earnestly; to beg
 - To help or assist

What do the following passages most likely mean?

- "A wrong is unredressed when retribution overtakes its redresser. It is equally unredressed when the avenger fails to make himself felt as such to him who has done the wrong."
 - The narrative offers some advice on seeking revenge.
 - The narrative tells how to do so for revenge.
- "Thus speaking, Fortunato possessed himself of my arm. Putting on a mask of black silk, and drawing a regulator (cloak) closely about my person, I suffered him to hurry me to my palazzo." Why did Montresor put on a mask and a cloak?
 - Montresor thought it was cold and damp.
 - Montresor did not want to be recognized.
- "Be it so," I said, replacing the nail beneath the door, and again offering him my arm, he leaned upon it heavily." What does Fortunato's leaning "heavily" suggest?
 - It suggests that Fortunato couldn't see things closely.
 - It suggests that Fortunato had been drinking too much.
- Why does Montresor appear concerned about Fortunato's health?
 - He wants to pretend to be a concerned friend.
 - He wants to trick Fortunato into going to Luchesi's house.
- How does Montresor manipulate Fortunato?
 - He says that Luchesi would be able to tell what kind of wine it was.
 - He says that Luchesi had not come to the carnival.

As We Read:

1. What does Montresor vow in the first paragraph? _____
 2. Based ONLY on the first paragraph, is Montresor justified in wanting this? What evidence in the text supports this idea?

3. How does Montresor treat Fortunato? (Paragraph 2)

4. In what ways is this similar to the narrator in "The Tell-Tale Heart"?

5. What is Fortunato's weakness? How did this weakness allow Montresor to take advantage of him?

6. Examine the dialogue below. Label who is speaking, each line, then answer the questions that follow:

I said to him: "My dear Fortunato, you are luckily met. How remarkably well you are looking today! But I have received a pipe of what passes for Amontillado, and I have my doubts." "How?" said he. "Amontillado? A pipe? Impossible! And in the middle of the carnival?" "I have my doubts," I replied; "and I was silly enough to pay the full Amontillado price without consulting you in the matter. You were not to be found, and I was fearful of losing a bargain." "Amontillado!" "I have my doubts." "Amontillado!" "And I must satisfy them." "Amontillado!" "As you are engaged, I am on my way to Luchesi. If anyone has a critical turn, it is he. He will tell me—"
